To Resume Operations

Chris Vedo is in receipt of the information that the Alaska-Trokan Mining Co., in which he is interested, will resume operations on their property in this district in the near future. Chris says that the work on the tunnel they are driving will be pushed this summer, and if the season turns out to be a good one, there is every probability that the main ore body, for which they are drifting, will be reached before work is discontinued next fall. The Berg boys are expected north on an early boat, and the work of development will be taken up upon their arrival.

Looking For Furs

Charles Goldstein, Juneau's hustling merchant, was a local visitor this week. Mr. Goldstein is looking for furs, of which he bought quite a number while here. He left for Petersburg and the north on one of the many gasoline boats plying between the fishtown and Wrangell.

Another New Building

During the past week F. C. Miles has closed a deal whereby he becomes the owner of the Cole fractional lot, situated between the old Pioneer building and Matheson's store. Mr. Miles states to The Sentinel that he will begin the erection of a store building and residence at an early date.

To Straighten Her Spine

Dr. Dawes this week performed an operation on Mrs. Edith Johnson, of Shakan, for the purpose of curing her of tuberculosis of the spine. For several months she has been suffering acutely and an examination revealed the fact that an operation was necessary. Wednesday Dr. Dawes worked the bones into their proper positions and then placed a plaster cast on the woman's body. If all goes well, the expectations are that she will be able to walk again within a year.

The Alaska with the Garnet in tow, sails for Pillar Bay tonight.

Examined For Lunacy

Tom Coday, a native better known as Tolstoi Tom, was examined this week in Court Commissioner Thomas' court, looking into his mental condition. The poor fellow is harmless, imagining he has lots of property. He was turned over to his friends who instructed to keep watch over him, and report any inclination towards violence.

Moving His Fish

Jack Mantel, on board his good ship Vixen, left for the saltery yesterday for the final load of his last year's catch of fish, which he will barrel and hold for market. Reports from the Sound are to the effect that while the price of salt fish is not so bad, there is no demand for any at this time.

Go After Bearskins

Frank Cheney and Charley Olsen left for up river Tuesday morning. They say that they are after bearskins this trip. While on their trapping grounds recently they saw lots of bear signs, but made no attempt to look for the big fellows, as they wanted to get down to the market to dispose of their catch of small furs. Now, however, they are off for bear and expect to bring down a good many of their skins.

Several others of the local hunters either have started out on the same mission or are intending to, and the bears will suffer for the next few weeks. Several hunters from other places are reported to be heading in this direction, among them being Judge E. E. Cushman of the district court.

Strong A Candidate

Major J. F. A. Strong, formerly editor of the Katalla Herald, has announced that he will accept the nomination for delegate to congress from Alaska. The democratic convention will be held at Juneau on May 25th.

Gasboat For Sale

I wish to sell my gasoline launch Wisby, fully equipped according to law. She has a length of 28 feet; beam of 7 feet 10 inches and engined with a 6 h. p. Fisherman engine. Boat and engine are in perfect condition, and a bargain at the price, $500.00. J. L. Johnson

Whale Sinks Whaler

The Alaska, just in from Sitkoh bay, brings the news of the sinking of the gasoline whaler, Lizzie Sorensen last week. The vessel, belonging to the whaling station at Tyee, had harpooned a big whale when about twenty miles off-shore from Frederick Sound. Instead of running for it when struck, the big fellow turned and rammed the schooner, smashing in her hull, so that she sank within a very short time. The crew had to take to the small boats, leaving the whale in possession.

Leave For A Cruise

Rev. Clark and family left on the launch Winona for a cruise Tuesday morning. They are on business connected with the Presbyterian mission at this place, and expect to be gone several days. This is Mr. Clark's first trip of any length with the boat, but so well has the engine been running that he does not anticipate any trouble with it.

For Memorial Day

A rather small crowd turned out at the courthouse Monday evening to make the preliminary arrangements for the observation of Memorial Day. A general committee to have control of the services was appointed, consisting of Judge Thomas, chairman, and Mrs. Willson, Miss Woods, Dr. Emery, Al. J. Lowe and F. H. Gray.

This committee met Wednesday evening and appointed the following sub-committees:

Mrs. Willson, Mrs. Thomas and Miss Woods, music; Rev. Clark, Rev. Corser and Adjt. Smith, ceremonies and oration; Ed. Ludecke, to mark the graves of the veterans with flags; John Johnson, K. J. Johansen, Fred Wigg, J. Mantel, C. M. Coulter and Wm. H. Lewis, transportation. In addition to this a general invitation is extended to all the women and children of the town to consider themselves a committee to secure floral offerings, which the committee desires shall be left with Mrs. Uhler. The program of the day will be published in next week's Sentinel.

LOGICAL REASONING

In a speech delivered before the Navy League at Philadelphia recently, George Von L. Meyer, the Secretary of the Navy, told his audience that it was a bad thing to be rich and defenseless. If Russia had possessed five additional battleships, he said, Japan would not have gone to war with her, and the cost of the war to Russia; some four thousand or more millions of dollars would have been saved to her. Had this country possessed eight additional battleships of the Oregon type, it would have been manifestly impossible for Spain to have gone to war with us, and the cost of that war; $507,000,000, would have been saved to the United States. He spoke truthfully when he said: "To be strongly armed for war is a guaranty for peace; to be rich but weak, is to invite aggression."

WHAT WE PRODUCE

One might naturally expect the people of interior Alaska to become adept in the manufacture of stoves, heaters and furnaces, of sleds and dog harness, robes, moccasins and parkas, says the Fairbanks Times. Gold bricks are, of course, a natural product, and hardly attract notice. It is easy to see, too, why manufacture should drift toward boiler making, and the construction of gravel carriers and steam points, and other such machinery as is needed in quantity in the operation of placer mining ground. But there are many articles in the list of home products, as submitted in the Times' contest, which would surprise a stranger, and even many a resident.

The winning list includes comforts in life as mantels, mattresses and mission furniture; such necessities as beer, wine and tobacco, all home grown and home manufactured; such luxuries as canary birds, strawberries and hen fruit. Whether an arctic hog is something different from an Outside hog, remains yet to be told. Of more heroic proportions are steamboats; bridges—river and dental; propeller wheels, optimists, delegates and woman bankers.

A syndicate of New York capitalists, headed by A. L. Schurr, have acquired the right of way of the Alaska Short Line and will send a corps of engineers north to begin operations in railroad building. It is their intention to have the road completed from Iliamna to Ruskokwim, tapping the Innoka and Iditarod in 1911.

The 23-ton schooner Alva recently left West Seattle bound for a cruise in the Bering sea and Arctic ocean in search of geological specimens.

Simply Smiles

"Tommy," the schoolteacher asked, "why are you scratching your head?"

"Cause nobody else knows just where it itches."

A teacher in a New England grammar school found the subjoined facts in a composition on Longfellow, the poet, written by a fifteen year old girl:

"Henry W. Longfellow was born in Portland, Maine, while his parents were traveling in Europe. He had many fast friends, among whom the fastest was Phoebe and Alice Carey."

The wife of a literary man of the Indiana school, who had taken up chicken raising as a side issue, was telling of the poor success she had had with a brood of eleven chickens. They seemed to be doing all right for a few days, she said, and then, one after another, they all died in the coop.

"What did you feed them?" asked the wife of a farmer neighbor.

"Feed them?" exclaimed the author's helpmate. "I didn't feed them; I thought a healthy young pullet like that should have milk enough for her chicks."

Standing before his dresser after coming home rather late from the club, he picked up his hair brush when he reached for his hand mirror. He held it before his face for a moment and then said to himself:

"Great Scott, old man, you need a shave!"

Representatives of the Alaska Northern report that a steamship is now en route from Japan for Seward laden with 3,000 tons of coal to be used in the operation of trains. The Seward Commercial club has entered a protest to congress against the importation of this product when Alaska has such a quantity of undeveloped coal.

Up From Sallery

Messrs. Bryant and Borch were up from their saltery for a day or two recently. They report that they are hard at work getting out material for barrels. They have been badly hampered by the unusually heavy fall of snow in the district in which they are working. In many places they say it is still five or six feet deep in the woods close to the beach, and even on the level where Jack Mantel has had his garden, there is still about two feet of the beautiful.

Easy Money

The government realized the sum of $26,530 from the sale of the equipment and spoils of Japanese seal poachers taken April 8, 1909, at Unalaska. The Kinsel Maru and equipment was sold for $4,600 and the Sakai Maru brought $150. Fred Shroder brought both. Six hundred and sixty seal skins were sold to Ike Rosenberg for $38.00 each.

Painting Redmen's Hall

Capt. John Johnson and Johnnie Houghton are engaged this week in repainting the roof of Redmen's Hall. They started work yesterday morning. The hall is in excellent shape, and the trustees intend to see to it that it remains in that condition.

Ludwig Berg, one of Wrangell's old timers, now a resident of Seattle, was a passenger up on the Dolphin. He is on business connected with the Alaska-Trokn Mining Co.

A Paying Mine

The Mining and Scientific Press of April 16 gives the following figures from Treadwell: The report of the Alaska Treadwell Gold Mining company for March states that the 240 mill ran 25 days, 16 hours and crushed 27,104 tons of ore. Of this 500 tons of concentrates, valued at $37,524, was saved, and $59,414 in free gold. The operating expenses amounted to $64,781 and construction $8,056. The yield per ton of ore milled amounted to $3.77. At the Alaska Mexican mine the report for the same period gives the mill run 21 days 2 hours, ore crushed, 12,377 tons, concentrates saved, 253 tons, valued at $17,784, base bullion, $1,940 and free gold $22,512. The operating expenses amounted to $26,482 and the yield per ton of ore milled, $3.40.

More Than Expected

Last month the census bureau announced that the white population of Alaska was over 40,000 and might go 50,000. Dr. Romig, in charge of the census enumeration in the southwestern Alaska division, thinks that when the census is completed, it will largely exceed the department's estimate.
